International students from Muroran Institute of Technology visit OUAVM

International students from Muroran Institute of Technology visited OUAVM on September 8 (Fri.) as part of a study tour and exchange opinions with international students of OUAVM.

In all, there were 40 graduate and special research students from China and Southeast Asian countries representing the Muroran Institute of Technology. After having a briefing on education and research in OUAVM from a staff member in charge of social contribution at a lecture room of the Large Animal Hospital and Clinical Research Building, they toured various facilities on foot while enjoying views of white birch trees and the horse-riding ground on campus.

Then, they exchanged opinions with nine international students of OUAVM in a round-table talk to develop relations in a short period of time with other international students who study in different areas but come from the same countries.
